BINGO LOOKS FOR HIS HAPPY ENDING

Bingo Helps Decorate

We love every dog and cat who becomes a PAWS animal. But cats and dogs who take a bit longer to find their forever homes steal our hearts. We see them at their best. So we are saddened by how long it takes them to find their matches. Still we know that some simply don't show well during open hours.

Bingo, a de-clawed, black and white cat is one such character. He arrived at PAWS around Thanksgiving 2007 with a litter box issue. We soon discovered that the ten-year old decided he was too old to bend his knees and would simply miss his box. We gave him a large covered box. Problem solved!

We love Bingo, but we have to admit that he can sometimes be a bit of a grump and occasionally growls to show his displeasure. This can be intimidating and turn potential adopters away. But Bingo is a wonderful cat. When we let him out of his room, he wanders the hallways and sneaks into the lobby and office areas.

Once through those doors, he is outgoing and friendly, curious and content. He usually swings by the Shelter Supervisor's office to scratch on his favorite catnip mat and peak into her purse. He sniffs around for stray treats and other purses.

He sometimes growls during his trip back to the cat side of the building, but he forgets his disappointment if he can sniff around the kitchen before returning to his room. If there is a purse to investigate, even better! He happily eats dinner and watches volunteers walk dogs past his window. Though Bingo decided he was too old to bend his knees, he has plenty of spunk left. Our volunteers would be happy to introduce you to Bingo, so please stop by! He's been here a year now is ready for a forever guardian. And if you have a big purse, even better!

AND LACEY FINDS HERS

She lay in her crate and stared at the door with her big, sad eyes. You could tell she was waiting for her people to walk through that door. We estimated that the yellow lab mix was nearly ten. She had a large tumor on her left side and several small masses on her chest and hip. A real heart-breaker!

The people at the Centre Hall SPCA told us that she had been surrendered as a stray. She clearly would require a special home and possibly costly medical attention, but we just couldn't turn our backs. We thought that she might always be a PAWS dog. So we named her Shirley and took her into our family.

After about a week and visits to a few vets, a surprising phone call came into the Center. A man was looking for his 14 year-old yellow lab mix with a large tumor on her side. We soon confirmed that our Shirley was really his Lacey. It was clear that she was well loved and well cared for. Her guardian explained that Lacey had seen several vets. The consensus was that she should live out her life without the trauma of major surgery.

Lacey was reunited with her family in the PAWS lobby. She recognized her people right away. While her foster told her people how wonderful she'd been, Lacey stood by the door, waiting to go home. Lacey was only with us for a short time, but she left paw prints on the hearts of everyone she met.

Before we moved into the Center, our facility was only large enough to house cats. Now we can rescue more dogs, like the ones we picked up with Lacey at the SPCA that day. Stories like Lacey's motivate us to keep working together for the homeless animals of Centre County. Because of you, Lacey got the happy ending she deserved.

HAPPY HOLIDAYS

FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear PAWS Friends,
Happy Holidays!

It was a busy fall at PAWS. Many cats and dogs were rescued and many adopted, but we still have many adoptable animals available. If you're looking for a new companion, please read about the members of our Lonely Hearts Club or come meet them at our Adoption and Education Center on Trout Road. We have many special dogs and cats waiting to go to their forever homes. In addition to all this, we held our annual Pet Extravaganza and Fur Ball events this fall—a very busy fall indeed.

Thanks to the generosity of the community, we have raised more than $1.5 million toward our new Center. But we still need to raise more than $200,000. In addition, we are raising funds for an operating expense endowment and the ongoing operations of PAWS. Certainly 2008 was a tough year for the economy, but homeless cats and dogs in the Centre Region still need your help! Centre County PAWS is a nonprofit 501(c)(3) organization and your contribution is tax deductible.

We continue to welcome new volunteers and foster homes. Our foster homes provide loving care for many of our animals until we can find permanent homes for them. Rewarding volunteer opportunities abound. Whether you want to volunteer at the Center when we're open to the public, handle a dog at our public showings, help care for the animals living at the Center, walk a dog or help socialize cats or dogs, we have a place for you. There are many other volunteer opportunities including public education, fundraising and development, building and grounds maintenance, marketing and publicity. For more information, please call us at (814) 237.8722 or check us out online at www.centrecountypaws.org.

On behalf of everyone at PAWS, I wish you and your family, two-legged and four, a wonderful holiday season and a happy New Year!

Best regards,
Dave Abler

ELLIOT AND FINGERS-SPECIAL NEEDS CATS FORM A SPECIAL BOND

Fingers

No one knew why Elliot was so frightened. This beautiful orange and white boy came to PAWS as a stray. It appeared that he had spent the winter out in the cold. Wounds on his nose suggested that other cats had picked on him. A kind young couple rescued the cat with the injured face and troubled eyes. Elliot was inconsolable in the Adoption Center, constantly fearful and guarded. When he went to a loving foster home, Elliot remained careful, usually hiding under his bed.

An orange tabby named Fingers had a tough year too.

Like Elliot, Fingers was living on his own as an un-neutered stray and suffered bullying from other cats. But that didn't stop Fingers from seeking friends. When a PAWS volunteer noticed Fingers outside, Fingers opened up his heart—and his big polydactyl paws—in greeting. At PAWS, he proved to be a constant talker, purring machine, soccer player, and snuggler. Both Fingers and Elliot were abandoned and homeless. Both were saved.

Elliot and Fingers share yet another bond. Stray cats face many perils. Hormone-fueled violence and the teeth and claws of other felines is a constant danger. Injuries can expose cats to transmittable viruses, including Feline Immunodeficiency Virus (FIV).

Both Elliot and Fingers were injured and both were exposed to FIV during the time they were homeless.

Cats who have been exposed can be identified with a simple test. These cats will not necessarily develop symptoms. But since FIV can damage their immune systems, they need extra protection. They should be kept indoors, eat a healthy diet, and be treated by a vet at the first sign of illness. FIV positive cats can never transmit the virus to humans or dogs. The virus is generally transmitted to other cats through penetrating wounds. Just to be on the safe side, however, it is best for FIV cats to live separately from non-FIV cats. This makes it hard for them to find homes.

Fingers arrived at PAWS several months after Elliot and moved in with his foster mom, Linda Friend.

Boy was Elliot surprised! Fingers bounded into his bedroom, and into his life, with characteristic joy and energy. Elliot watched cautiously as Fingers enjoyed playtime and cuddles with Linda. Fingers showed Elliot that sleeping on top of a bed feels much better than huddling under one. Linda began finding them snoozing together. Elliot soon noticed Fingers enjoying attention and started coming out of his shell. Now, Elliot provides the faithful companionship that Fingers loves, while Fingers is bringing carefree fun back into Elliot's world. Both thrive together.

If you or someone you know is looking for two pals to love, and has a safe place for two kitties who need some extra care, then look no further. Two orange and white faces will light up with joy at the thought of spending their lives together as part of a forever family! PAWS desperately needs homes willing to help special needs cats. Please contact us to learn more.

BLACK DOGS MAKE WONDERFUL COMPANIONS

Shelters and rescue groups across the country know that black dogs can be difficult to place.

Some theories about black dogs include:

- They may be harder to see in the kennel.

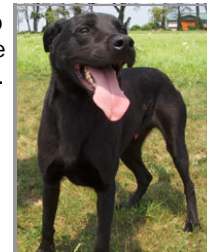

- They may not photograph as well.
- Their facial features may be harder to see and people feel like they can't gauge their emotions as well.

But here at PAWS, we think that black dogs are special. Their guardians should be inducted into an exclusive club—the PAWS Black Dog Club.

So if you are thinking about adopting a dog, remember that black dogs, just like their lighter-furred counterparts, make wonderful companions.

If you adopt a black dog from PAWS, not only will you get a great new friend, but you will also be inducted into the PAWS Black Dog Club and will receive a free tee shirt.

Milo, a PAWS black dog

GOLDEN PAW SOCIETY

The Golden Paw Society honors benefactors who include PAWS in their estate plans. The name is a glowing salute from our animal friends to these supporters for helping to ensure that the important work of PAWS can continue for years to come. It symbolizes PAWS' belief that animal friends leave indelible paw prints in the hearts of loved ones. As an organization, PAWS leaves lasting imprints too, making permanent changes in individual lives and in the way that our community treats animals.

Members will receive a golden paw paperweight, custom designed by Sharon Teaman, to represent the marks they leave in the lives of the animals and families helped by their bequests

To join, simply include PAWS in your estate plans and provide documentation.

There are different ways to make estate gifts and we recommend that you consult a financial planner or attorney. These gifts may also provide tax benefits. You do not need a large estate to become part of The Golden Paw Society, just a desire to remember PAWS in your will. To learn more, please contact the Development Office (814-237-8722, Ext. 9). Estate gifts to PAWS leave a legacy of love to the future's cats and dogs.

“...animal friends leave indelible paw prints on the hearts of loved ones.”

THE LONELY HEARTS CLUB

WHERE SPECIAL ANIMALS MEET THEIR SPECIAL PEOPLE

Bones is a one and a half year old shepherd mix, who loves his squeaky toys. House and crate trained, he is more than ready for a forever home. He has loads of energy and is great with kids, although care should be taken that this boy doesn't bowl over any toddlers.

Bones can be protective of his family and is not good with other dogs due to a bad experience. But he responds to a firm tug on his collar and a sharp, "No." Still, we think he should be in a home with an experienced dog person.

Fingers had a rough and tumble past, but this young fellow with the big ears and VERY big polydactyl paws (seven toes on each of his front feet) has an absolutely exuberant personality. Read more about Fingers and his best friend Elliot earlier in this newsletter.

Wylie is a classy guy as you can see from his tuxedo. He is quite a lovable armful. His foster calls him "comfortable"—not too active and not too stodgy. Wylie is a confirmed people watcher who loves hanging out with the two-legged creatures. In fact, he likes to be near and touching his humans. His foster mom thinks he'd easily be able to adapt to other cats in a household. Wylie is on a prescription diet to prevent urinary tract infections, but he's not a fussy eater.

Kimo is a shepherd-lab mix and still a puppy! Kimo has lived with children as young as six. He's good with them, but at about 60 lb, he should be watched around toddlers. Kimo hasn't been exposed to other dogs or cats. As a puppy, he still needs some work on house training and his behavior when left alone. He is active, but loves attention and snuggling with his person.

ARE YOU MY SPECIAL PERSON?

Sweetcake is as sweet she is beautiful. She loves when the volunteers pet her, brush her and generally make a fuss over her. She also loves high places, so a nice, tall cat climber is a must in her new home...or at least something that will serve as a perch from which she can oversee the goings on below. She tells us that guy cats are sort of okay, but she's not fond of being with girl cats. Most of all, Sweetcake wants to be adopted, but if she had her druthers, she'd prefer being your one and only.

Milo is a two and a half year old black lab mix. He is fine with children as young as three. But he is a big dog with a frequently wagging tail so care around youngsters is important. Milo is friendly with strangers and good with other dogs though no push over. He hasn't had much contact with cats and will chase them and bark. Milo is housetrained but needs to get outside about every eight hours. And he needs a soft chew toy to keep him occupied when he's left alone.

Lacey is a gentle, sensitive young gal. She's very people-oriented and loves to sleep snuggled up on foster mom's pillow, totally unfazed by the big dogs at the foot of the bed! She likes perching on the windowsills, carefully checking the action outside and has a good time playing with her favorite toys.

Lacey tested positive for the Feline Leukemia Virus (FeLV) about a year ago, but shows no signs of illness. This means that Lacey will need an indoor only home and she may not go into a home with FeLV negative cats. FeLV cannot be transmitted to humans or dogs, but it can be transmitted to other cats.

Chloe is a beautiful, trusting and gentle middle-aged (eight or nine yr) gal. She welcomes you with purrs and caresses and loves to be picked up and cuddled. She will kiss your face and hands and puts people before food! She's not interested in eating until she's been hugged.

She had a lesion removed from her nose awhile back. It was precancerous. This just means that Chloe has to be kept indoors and away from the sun. Her eyelids turn inward and cause irritation so she needs eye drops every day. But since she loves to be held and pampered, that's no big deal.

PEOPLE MAKE THE DIFFERENCE

TAYLOR'S PARTY

Taylor decided that she'd throw the PAWS animals a party for her 9th birthday.

One of Taylor's guests made a donation that paid for a scale for weighing kittens. Here Taylor shows off some of her special gifts.

HEARTFELT GENEROSITY

Arina and her family adopted Theo, a PAWS cat this fall. She also made a donation from her birthday money. Here she is with another PAWS cat, Talledega.

Sara, pictured here with PAWS dog Kane, chose to raise money for PAWS for her school project. She raised $150 selling homemade dog biscuits at the Way Fruit Farm Fall Festival. Her parents matched it for a total of $300!

CARTERS PARTY

Rick and Dianne Carter of Lewistown threw a party in memory of their beloved dogs, Gizmo and Rosco. Friends and neighbors were invited and Fred Metzger's band, Keena provided the entertainment.

The Carters purchased the services of the band at the 2007 Fur Ball. Giving results in more giving. Almost $3000 was raised for PAWS at this occasion in honor of two beloved dogs.

Thanks to all of you and everyone who helps PAWS in ways both large and small.

FUR BALL 2008

Lisa, the Shelter Supervisor and Mary, a Fur Ball Committee member

The 2008 PAWS Fur Ball was held on Saturday, October 4th at the Centre Hills Country Club. It was the 3rd annual Fur Ball and what a party it was!

The Fur Ball raised over $50,000 this year. A five-paw thank you to all who made it such a success.

And an extra thank you paw to all our sponsors.

MORE CENTER NEWS

HOLIDAY HOURS

PAWS will be closed from December 16th though January 2nd. We will re-open to the public on Saturday, January 3, 2009.

During this time, we will retrieve phone messages and return any urgent calls as quickly as possible. Thank you for your support in 2008.

We invite you to visit the animals, become a member, become a volunteer or foster a cat or dog. And if you are looking for a special companion in 2009, we are the place to look.

If you are interested in becoming a foster in 2009, please send an email to cats@centrecounty.org or dogs@centrecounty.org .

A TREE GROWS AT PAWS

You can help the animals of PAWS and benefit the environment at the same time.

PAWS plans to literally "spruce" up the landscaping and provide a much-needed wind break.

We will be planting Norway Spruce in 2009. If you're interested in donating $500 to defray the cost of one of these beautiful trees, please call the Development line at (814) 237-8722, Ext. 9 or send an email to mail@centrecountypaws.org.

2008 PAWS PET EXTRAVAGANZA ROCKS THE HOUSE

The 2008 PAWS Pet Extravaganza raised over $15,000. Over 1,000 people joined in the fun at the Penn State Snider Ag Arena on September 21st. Local businesses donated over 120 items for the raffle and silent auction. The baked goods were yummy and the craft items beautiful—no end to the talents of our volunteers. The first annual Lucky Dog Raffle was a success. Other activities included a rabies vaccination clinic sponsored by Centre Animal Hospital, a microchip clinic sponsored by Animal Medical Hospital, and an animal weight maintenance clinic sponsored by Students for the Responsible Use of Animals.

The day was packed with animal demonstrations, including dog obedience training by Manners n' More and John P. Jones Canine Training. And more! * Pet photos *Pet first aid demonstration *Parade of rescued animals *Silly pet tricks contest *Doggie IQ contest *Best-dressed pet-owner look-alike contest *Pro-Am biscuit bakeoff PAWS animals and other local rescue groups were also on hand.

The Pet Extravaganza committee would like to extend a very special thanks to the sponsors of the event. Their support is greatly appreciated now and throughout the year.
